AP Language and Composition
Checklist for Annotated Bibliography

Sources
        List features at least 5 scholarly sources
        Sources provide a good basis for discovering and understanding multiple sides of an issue

Citations
            All information is present
            Entries are in alphabetical order
            Entries are double spaced
            Entries feature hang indentation

Annotations (not every annotation will do all of these)
        Provide information about the usefulness of the source to your question
        Give the thesis of the source's main argument
        Make clear the exigence for the argument
        Use commentary style
        Refer to the writer of the source
        Use short, frequent quotations
            To give a sense of voice
            To present technical information
            To anchor your work in the text itself
        Give a sense of how each article fits into the larger conversation
            Refer to key ideas of topic
            Refer to other sources on the bibliography
        Evaluate the sources, as necessary
        Spot bias or logical flaws
        Raise new questions