 Exercise

1. How does Zinczenko establish exigence in his essay?

2. How does Zinczenko handle counterarguments?

From yesterday:

Read David Zinczenko’s “Don’t Blame the Eater” and imagine ways you might disagree with the essay.

1. The essay is outdated.
2. The consequences make sense, but the causes are different.
3. It's not the industry that's responsible, but some other party.

(See how the stases help you find ways to disagree.)

Use the material from chapters 3 and 4 to write a paragraph in which you disagree with Zinczenko. Use templates from chapter 3 to contextualize your ideas; use templates from chapter 4 to disagree with Zinczenko. Feel free to agree with him on some points as you work to make your argument.
